

THEY ARE WRONG

I am a cat. This is my house. There are people living here, too. Three kids and a mum. Other people think that this is their house, and I am their pet. They are wrong.

Many people believe that the best way to keep clean is to get in a big tub of water. They are wrong. I keep myself clean. I am not a dirty dog.

The best place to nap in the house is on the lap of one of my pets. I wrap myself up into a ball, and get lots of free cuddles and pats. I love living in this house.

Sometimes the kids
can be noisy, and they sometimes wreck things in the house. But for most of the day they are at school, and I have a lot of time to do what I want.

Some people think that mice are very fast, and it is difficult to catch them. They are wrong. I am faster, and I always catch the mice that try to sneak into my house.

I often go outside in the yard to play. I jump and climb on everything. It's all mine. There are sometimes a lot of wriggling bugs in the yard, and I try and catch as many as I can.

The kids' mum does not like it when I bring bugs into the house. She thinks they are dirty and ugly, and that I should leave them outside. She is wrong. This is my house, and I can bring in whatever I want.

There is a very naughty boy that lives next door to my house. He is mean and smelly. He always teases me whenever he sees me, and I always growl when I see him. He thinks he can do this to me because he is bigger than me. He is wrong.

One day, I am going to grow as big as a tiger, with big, sharp claws, and bigger, sharper fangs. Then, I will go next door and wreck that kid's house!

There are other cats that think living outside is better. They are wrong. I have a warm bed where I curl up, wrapped in soft blankets every night. I love my house, and my pet kids.
