

SUN?

Illustrated by Suman Maharjan

It is a rainy day!

What are we going to do with it?

I want to head outside for a bit so that we can feel fresh and relax in the rain.

We can find puddles so that we can make a big splash!

It is fun to jump up and down in puddles when it begins to rain.

We can go down to the pond and swim with the frogs. I take off my gumboots so that I can squelch my feet in the wet grass and the mud.

I can lay out and let the rain drip on me. It feels nice as the drops fall down on my skin.

The world smells so crisp
when it rains.

If it gets too crazy out there, we can find a spot to hide while it pelts down.

We can grab a big leaf and walk
while we are undercover.

I make a hot drink to warm me up when I get home. I think they should have some too, on the basis that they are also cold. I tell them that coffee is not good for animals.

That does not stop them trying though.

The animals like to sit around while I read my book. I read out aloud so that they can hear my voice.

They like the sound of it.

It is fun to sing in the rain.

I like how our singing sounds against the rain in the background. The rain is like a backing track.

We stay up late into the night
as the storm keeps on.

I share stories with my animals. They listen to me with keen ears.

A vibrant, monochromatic illustration in shades of red and orange. In the center, a boy is captured in mid-air, jumping towards a large cow. The boy's arms are outstretched, and his legs are bent in a jumping motion. The cow stands facing him, its head slightly turned. In the bottom left corner, a small cat is visible, looking towards the scene. The background is a large, glowing sun with wavy rays, and the sky is filled with small, stylized clouds and dandelion-like seeds floating in the air. The overall mood is warm and celebratory.

The sun is up!

After all of that rain, it will be a great day for plants to drink in the sun and grow strong. Time to get to work.
